Customer Reviews

I used to teach high school (5 years) and community college level Psychology (7 years+)...so I really love to see when students actually experiencing a certain level of life sharing their lessons learned so that peers (and kids a few years behind) can learn from someone they can truly relate to. There's nothing like someone going through something real-time sharing important take aways and advice. That is what this book is and accomplishes so well. Sabah is a successful college student who is also pursuing her dreams as an entrepreneur. All high school and college age students should read and learn from this! Great job, Sabah. :)

This book gives college students the insight they need to go after the things they really want in life and pursue a career that is fulfilling for them. The experiences Sabah has had in college have allowed her to achieve many things while still in college and she shares everything she has done and how you can do it for yourself. I love the story about how she went to the class presentation she didn't want to go to, but it changed her life and led to a internship of her dreams. Love this!!

Five stars! Great job Sabah
