Marco Polo Maps are famous for the high quality of cartography in their Country, City and Holiday Maps.

This map has a scale of 1:800,000 and is easier to read than the Michelin edition (I know Michelin reputation is great, but...)It advertises six city maps, but only Oslo and Trondheim are in Norway! Others are Copenhagen, Malmo, Goteburg and Stockholm ;-/ and they aren't very detailed inside the cities.This is a huge map when unfolded, and I will get the sectional map for commonly traveled areas instead.

great detail of the fjords. We were on a cruise and wanted to see the fjords into which we were sailing. This map was exactly what we wanted. Yes, it is big. But for us that did not pose a problem.

We will look for a Marco Polo map for our next trip.

This map is large and awkward and splits the map of Norway placing part on one side and other parts on the reverse side. This often results in a travel itinerary that is on both front and back of map, rather than the entire route on one side. It does not provide any special information. The same information can be found on most other maps of Norway. I still prefer the Cappelen series.

Too big to use comfortably. I can't imagine using it during travel, but I can hang it on the wall for planning.

This is a large map suitable for wall hanging or trip planning, but is far too large to be used in an automobile. I bought it for my husband so he could study the places where his Norwegian relatives live and he's very pleased. The map extends into neighboring Sweden, and he could also see where many of his Swedish ancestry relatives were from. It's a two-sided map and you will need a large table to open it out on, but it's worth having.

I'd have to rent a bigger car to be able to unfold it inside. Will buy another of smaller scale for everyday use.

Waaaaay toooooo big to be useful. Nice to have but....who needs this!!??

Detailed; helpful because I could find everything I want to find.
