Brush Of Wings: A Novel (Angels Walking Book 3)

Synopsis

From #1 New York Times bestselling author Karen Kingsbury comes the third and final novel in an unforgettable series about four friends and the divine intervention that changes their lives forever. Against the advice of her doctor, Mary Catherine moves to Uganda to work at a new orphanage. Whatever time she has left, Mary Catherine wants to spend it helping children—especially since she is unable to have children of her own. The only problem is Marcus Dillinger, the Major League Baseball player she was never meant to fall in love with. But neither Marcus nor Mary Catherine’s other friends—Tyler Ames and Sami Dawson—know just how serious her heart condition is. Still, Marcus suspects something isn’t right. After months of silence, a divinely timed letter from Mary Catherine leads him on a desperate life-or-death mission to get her to a US hospital before time runs out. Meanwhile, as Sami and Tyler prepare to marry, the group receives shocking news that changes everyone’s plans. The team of angels walking is busier than ever in this epic battle between life and death. Brush of Wings is a poignant tale of love, sacrifice, and the power of faith.

The third and final much anticipated book in the Angels Walking series BRUSH OF WINGS gives you a story you will soon not forget. Our favorite angels, Ember, Beck, Jag and Aspyn will have to join together to make their earthly mission a success. It will be a matter of life and death. A young woman Mary Catherine, whose life needs to continue and new life in a baby. A baby who will return a generation back to God. BRUSH OF WINGS takes you on Mary Catherine's life journey. A journey that is destined to end early due to significant health issues. Mary Catherine wants what everyone wants....a husband, a family and to have a purpose in her life, but her dreams are being shattered due to a failing heart. One man, Marcus Dillinger, is determined to make Mary Catherine his wife. The feelings are there for both of them, but Mary Catherine decides to run to Africa, fulfilling one last dream of hers, setting up and working in an orphanage. Marcus unaware of her sickness doesn't understand. A young girl, Lexy, who had sought help from Mary Catherine in the past, finds herself once again involved with the street gangs. Being treated poorly by a guy who she thinks loves her....She then finds herself pregnant. In steps the angels walking, trying everything to bring Marcus and Mary Catherine together. Will it be in time? The angels many jobs are to protect the unborn child, whose life hangs in the balance if their mission fails. All mankind depend on a their successful mission. Will the baby be born? Throughout the pages of BRUSH OF WINGS, you will find yourself praying for Mary Catherine, for Marcus, Lexy, and the angels walking. You find yourself not second guessing the existence of angels, because you will believe angels do walk among us. A story of hope, love and definitely faith and belief. I always love getting a new Karen Kingsbury book, counting the days until it's release, but then I totally consume the pages in a matter of hours. BRUSH OF WINGS was a beautiful story to end a wonderful series. Highly recommend reading it.

First of all, let me say I am a big fan of Karen Kingbury's work but this series has not been my favorite. The books just haven't seemed as compelling as most of her work. I also didn't like the Angels sending an email claiming to be someone else-seemed like lying. This final book just seemed too predictable and not enough conflict to make it interesting.

I absolutely loved the first 2 books in this trilogy but just can't seem to finish this book. I just get so frustrated with characters that are martyrs and not honest with their friends and boyfriends, I guess. I figure it's going to all turn out fine and will try and finish it as I did read the first 2 books and loved them. So sad.

What is there to dislike?! I loved every word of it so much so that I had to watch time at work so I wasn't late from lunch. I always had a difficult time closing it. Karen, just when I don't think you can get better, you write another one that's an absolute favorite of mine. Not only did I love the story but I loved how much you had God and His word a big and important part of it. Of course I loved the angels too. No one can write this kind of stories as well as you do. The only thing I wish is that you could write as fast as I read. I fell in love with Mary Catherine and Marcus most of all, because of what she went through. And all four of them had continuous faith, not just when they could see the results. Many times throughout the story I was teary eyed, most of them happy tears. However, when it came to Lexy and the baby, I had mixed emotions, only because I loved all of them. Karen, I hope you will read this and know how we are blessed every time the Holy Spirit guides you in your writings. I also hope you write more about angels and unwavering faith of the characters. Love stories weaved in makes them perfect. God bless you for writing what we need and want to read. Now to find your next book to read, as there aren't many left that I haven't read. This as my favorite for sure!

Brush of Wings is the third and final book in the Angels Walking series. We'll finally find the answers to the questions we were left with regarding Mary Catherine and Marcus at the end of Chasing Sunsets. Brush of Wings opens with a meeting of angels in heaven. As with the previous two books in the series, these images have stayed with me. I love the image of angels meeting to discuss how best to help us on earth. This series has been a reminder to me to look for the angels in my life. Mary Catherine is planning a move to Uganda to work at a new orphanage. Despite the fact that she needs a heart transplant. She goes without telling her parents or her best friend. She tells absolutely no one about her condition. This bugged me. An excellent example of pride, I suppose but I would've felt better if she'd told just one person. Mary Catherine is also fighting her feelings for Marcus, the man she never meant to fall in love with. While reading Chasing Sunsets and this book I didn't feel a connection or chemistry between Mary Catherine and Marcus. Their relationship felt rushed and underdeveloped. However, from the beginning I loved Tyler and Sami. I felt a connection with this couple and their relationship felt real. Even though this book didn't grab me as emotionally as the previous two I still enjoyed it. There is a satisfactory ending to each story and this reader appreciates having everything wrapped up. As a fan of Kingsbury's Baxter series I was pleasantly surprised to see a brief appearance by two members of the family. ARC provided by NetGalley in exchange for my honest review.
