Customer Reviews

I bought this as a gift for my daughter, who is planning her wedding for next Spring. I had received a free e-copy from the author, and it looked like something my daughter could benefit from, so I ordered her a physical copy and had it shipped directly to her. It arrived within 2 days, and she says it has some good ideas in it, and will save her some money; that makes BOTH of us happy! She tends to stress out about details, so hopefully this will help her in that department as well. I'll post another review after the wedding, to relate how the book was able to help her. Until then, have a good winter!

Jury still out....all my kids' weddings have gone great without this (trust an amazing restaurant to know what to do, folks!) but I am sending it on to my next future daughter in law and hopefully it will help her negotiate the outrageous costs of trying to do a wedding in a state park!!!

I've had this book stashed for quite awhile, so when my daughter got engaged last week, I was prepared! There are many great tips here that I know we will use, and many that have inspired some really fun ideas. I can't wait to share this with my daughter!

Admit it, weddings can be extremely expensive. For the discerning eye, cutting costs without compromising quality and enjoyment is prime. This book is perfect for my friend's eye as she puts to use the practical suggestions the book offers.

Nothing for us

There are a million articles and posts out there on how to save money on your big day. Some have great information... and some don't. That's why I'm a fan of Laura Pepper Wu's new e-book, 51 Ways to Save Money & Still Have a Fabulous & Chic Wedding! (AND, it's only $0.99! LESS THAN A DOLLAR!). I was eager to dig in and see if Laura had any good tips for tastefully (and successfully) throwing an affordable wedding. And boy, did she deliver! Some of the 51 tips are ones that you've heard before - for example, "Tip #14: Cut out the Flower Middlemen." But Laura gives this "been there, heard that" tip a nice twist by including online wholesale floral resources and suggesting that you have some flowers done professionally and the rest DIY. Talk about really thinking the process through!! I was also happy with some of Laura's other tips as I had not considered some of them before OR they were ones that I've recommended but aren't so well known. For example, Tip #7 talked about buying a suit for the groom instead of renting. And Tip #22 suggested skipping the cake topper if your cake is already a showstopper. So simple and yet so cost-saving and practical!! I think that one of my very favorite parts of Laura's e-book where the impressive number of online resources that she shared. Talk about cutting out the legwork! She even included websites for DIYing your own wedding invitations and for finding wedding specific coupons! Wedding specific coupons! Who knew? So, if you want a chic and fabulous wedding, and still enter marriage with enough money to enjoy newly wed life, then this guide is for you!

Lots of good ideas in the book. Some I might not use, like having my wedding on a weekday, so many people wouldn't be able to come. Not cool. Or having afternoon tea instead of a regular dinner/dancing/drinks reception. Personally that is not for me, I love the dancing part and being with my family. So that just wouldn't work. But the tips for where to buy groomsmen ties cheaper, or bridesmaids dresses and shoes was nice, flower tips and where to get the alcohol cheaper, very nice. It also includes websites to check out. Which is kind of annoying because they are not hyperlinks, but it's still nice to see some examples instead of having to look yourself. I got this book for free during an .com promo.

Whether you're planning a low-budget wedding, or just trying to shave extraneous costs from your budget to avoid spending on non-essentials, you will find ideas in this easy to read little book. Depending on your design ethic and style, you will just skim over some of the ideas, but you will also find some that resonate for you. Each couple will have non-negotiable items - good wine vs. cheap grocery store wine, live music vs. a DJ, silk flowers vs. fresh, etc. There are many cost-cutting ideas that will allow you to have a unique special wedding without going deeply into debt. This won't be the only resource you'll use during wedding planning, but can certainly provide many thought starters for your big day.
