Henry Holdsworth has spent more than 25 years documenting the beauty and rhythms of the Jackson Hole area. Henry's images of Jackson Hole have graced the pages of publications such as National Geographic, National Wildlife, Nature's Best, and Wyoming Wildlife. He has produced twelve books on the area.

Absolutely amazing photographs! Each page is a prize! I bought this for my niece who recently visited the area in memory of my beloved sister's passing. My sister loved her time there, and she always said she would be happy to be remembered near The Tetons. She called it God's Country. In our hearts, we see her in every page we turn. Mr. Holdsworth we thank you.

A long time ago, I watched a TV show that showcased the most beautiful places in the United States. An old rancher was interviewed from the Jackson Hole area. He said "hell, if heaven ain't like Jackson Hole, I ain't going." This book speaks to that beauty and portrays a glimpse of it, that will leave you wanting to visit Jackson Hole as soon as possible. Can't be a higher compliment than that.

Jackson Hole is pristine and beautiful, and this book reflects it. Unfortunately it loses its fifth star due to the relatively small size of its pages, as compared to the overwhelming sights of the Teton mountains and its surroundings, and for the lack of more winter pictures. Otherwise it's a beautiful book, beautifully printed, about a beautiful place.

This book was in great shape! I just love it!

Beautiful pictures and descriptions!! Gave as Christmas and recipient is still raving about it!

Gift that my friend loved.

I LOVED LOOKING AT THE PICTURES IN THIS BOOK

Nice
