Lego: The Calendar 2014

Synopsis

You won't believe what people can build with LEGO bricks! A haunted house complete with boarded-up windows. A bustling LEGO construction site. A Sopwith Camel WWI-era fighter plane—perfect down to every detail. Lego: The Calendar celebrates the iconic toy that has inspired creative construction for generations of boys, girls, and grown-ups. Here are a dozen astonishing creations by top LEGO designers, each one a tribute to ingenuity and the sheer joy of childhood play.

It's very pretty and made with high quality material, the photos look great. 7 photos are scenes with lego people and 5 are of some lego set without showing lego people. It has 3 calendars (2013-2015) behind the front cover and a code for a free digital page-a-day calendar from pageaday[dot]com. I totally recommend this calendar. I posted some pictures of each month so I hope that helps with your decision. :)

I'm a big Lego fan and that was a big reason for buying this calendar but what I really like about this calendar is the layout and overall design. There are calendars with numbers that are too small or even too big, too much distracting text, etc. This Lego calendar just seems perfect. I can look at it from across the room and I can tell exactly what date it is without getting distracted by anything. The pictures are nice and very sharp and the colors are very nice and vibrant. This is the second year I am using the Lego brand calendar and I plan on using it again next year.

Nice calendar.... my grandson loves it. I bought this in December of 2014 not realizing that it is a 2014 calendar! He has been writing in it all the activities that he is planning... camping with family etc... None of us realized it was a 2014 calendar until a few days ago. He still doesn't know... he is 7. It's my fault for buying it and not realizing it was a 2014 calendar but I would think they would have had a 2015 on sale before the 2014 one came up. I ordered 5 different calendars from for Christmas and all the others (as far as I know) are 2015. Live and learn. We at least had a good laugh. It is a good quality calendar if you are in need of last years calendar...

LOVED it! Awesome calendar, great price!!

I chose this calendar for my grandson as a learning tool. He really likes the Lego toys and was thrilled with the calendar and the objective as achieved.

There are lego creations pictured in the calendar that both of my children love! There aren't as many minifigures pictured this year as in past years.

Arrived in excellent mint condition. My 12 year old son loves lego, but I wasn't sure he would enjoy a calendar. Turns out at his age that they actually look forward to upcoming days off from school or upcoming holidays! So he enjoyed it very much. Also a great stocking stuffer or gift. Item is exactly as described. Would like better photos shown of the calendar months on the amazon images page.
