Profiting From Non-Performing Mortgage Notes: Being The Banker With Your Interest Secured By Real Estate

Synopsis

Profiting From Non-Performing Mortgage Notes is a book that bridges the gap between investor and banker. It's designed to expose the world of banking as it relates to mortgages, to show the layman, the average investor, and the sophisticated investor that this is totally possible, to become the banker. It is designed to show how the bankers make money off of mortgage debt and how they profit in the event of a default on a mortgage. It also shows one of the main strategies that bankers hate to use but that the layman and investor can use because of flexibility and short times as it relates to decision making. The layman transitioning into the banker's mindset has that flexibility of making decisions fast, without the need of a 12, 15, or 30-room boardroom meeting designed to make the decision on a few loans. The common man can make a decision within five minutes, without a business meeting, and implement powerful strategies to get a return on investment. This book, this work, is the culmination of the last 10-plus years of my life being in this mortgage note industry and closing hundreds of mortgage note deals. It will open your eyes and show you that this is possible for you too. You can become the banker!

I have been in the real estate space for over two decades and have heard from most of the Gurus. This is not that book. Amed is a real teacher with a masterful way of getting a point across. Through this book, I graduated from the hard asset side of real estate to the paper side of a banker. If you really wanted to win and was willing to do the work, mentally and going through the process, then you have found the person to show you the way. Welcome to the party, Thank you, Mr. Hazel, for becoming whom you had to become to share this with the world.

Great insight and perspective on a industry not many know about. Now I know I really should be investing in mortgage notes. If you want to take your investing to the next level start by reading "Profiting From Non Performing Mortgage Notes" By Amed Hazel Sr you won't be disappointed.
